

Guaranteed Standards of Service

B&D Energy wants you to have heating and hot water (and if we supply it, electricity) to your home at all times. We are also aware of the impact of any failures in the supply of energy. Therefore, we have set ourselves high standards of customer service and energy availability; what's more, if we fail to achieve these high standards we will compensate you to say sorry.

1. What do we mean by 'high standards'?

It would be simple for us to set ourselves low standards that would be easy for us to achieve. These standards may be 'guaranteed' but in fact fall short of delivering what you actually want from your energy supplier. We aim to provide a great of service that is amongst the best in the market.

You should note that we are responsible for:

- Heat – the heat supply network up to where your hot water pipes exit the Heat Interface Unit. Anything beyond that point is the responsibility of you or your landlord.
- Electricity (if we supply your electricity) - everything in our network up to and including where the cable enters your consumer unit. Anything beyond that point is the responsibility of you or your landlord.

2. When these Standards do not apply

There are some situations when these Standards and subsequent payments cannot be applied. These include:

- Extreme weather
- You ask us not to act
- The actions or inactions of the you or a third party prevented us performing to our standards
- Events reasonably beyond our control
- No payment will be made whilst we are in dispute with you
- Our failure is caused by an emergency or other extreme situation
- Your account is overdue or has been suspended or disconnected in line with the Residential Supply Agreement
- We are required by law to stop your energy supply
- We have suspended the heat supply on grounds of Health & Safety

3. Our promises to you
